Across

2. "We're waiting, Sheila," Mrs. Rubin reminded. Then she said, "Never mind. Sit down. I'll ask someone else." Sheila felt as if she were suffocating. Her face ____. She couldn't breathe. She couldn't hear. Her eyes blurred with tears that refused to fall.
5. Why do you think God said (in Genesis 2:18) that it's not good for people to be ____? Because being ____ is not Godlike. He created us to live and learn together.
6. She stumbled back to her desk in a daze and slumped down, still clutching the chalk. She missed everything Mrs. Rubin said and failed the quiz that followed. Like a television, stereo, or ____, humans are "wired for sight and sound."

11. Unlike these electronic devices, however, we are also wired for ____. Our ____ are interconnected with our brains. When we get excited or upset about something, the brain says, "I've got to remember this."
12. The ____ uses the body to help it remember things. Think of a recent memorable learning experience. What did you do? How did you feel? What did you learn? Could you explain it to someone else?

Down

1. Sheila stumbled into class and dumped her things into the basket under her seat. As the ____ rang, she plopped into her chair, panting. Students rushing to class had knocked her books and papers out of her arms and trampled on them. No one had tried to help.
3. Ask yourself some questions: Did I drink enough (or any) ____? Did I eat a healthy meal? Did I exercise? Did I go to bed on time? Say yes to all and see if it makes a difference.
4. [Wednesday's lesson] Read Psalm 139:13-16. Ask an adult to tell you about the day you were born. Look at your birth ____, baby pictures, or old baby clothes.

8. [Monday's lesson] Read Genesis 1:26, 27 and 2:7. Teach a younger person the ____ or song you created for your power text.
9. We were created to be ____ beings. We were designed to communicate in positive ways. That's why babies whose parents play with, cuddle, and talk to them a lot grow and learn quickly. Those who are neglected or abused usually don't.
