12. Where the huge clump of dates sat just yesterday, plump & glossy brown, you see a stump where they have been cut-stolen, probably. You look down to see your neighbor running into his house, looking back at you with a grin on his face. Did he ____ the dates?
1. He looks at you cautiously. Then he smiles. "Yes. Actually, she was ____ for your mom so that she could go to hear the Teacher, Jesus." Now you are smiling too. That Man Jesus was right: It is better to treat people with kindness!
3. All around you people are standing up without _____, hugging & laughing, & exclaiming at how healthy they feel. By the time you get home later that afternoon, the word is out that there is not one sick person in town, thanks to this Man, whose name, you have learned, is Jesus.
5. [Thursday's lesson] Read Psalm 23:5. Watch a nature program on television (or find something in a magazine or book) that depicts the response of an animal or plant to its _____. How is this the same as your response to your ____? How is it different? How does knowing Jesus make a difference?
6. The family ____ stands patiently waiting for you, his halter tied to a date palm in the front yard. Your long, white garment whips against your legs as you shinny up to the top of the tree.

10. "If someone curses you, don't curse back, but bless them. If they steal your _____, give it to them, & add something else as a gift." Is this Man completely out of His head?
